Negro Murderer Taken From An Ohio Jail and Strung Up.

MOB DEAF TO APPEALS.

Killing Was of a Cold-Blooded Nature.

Negro on His Knees in the Cell, Crying for Mercy, When the Dread Summons Came to Prepare to Meet His Maker—Murdered Man Was Endured to Every One Who Knew Him—No Attempt at Concealment.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 21.—At New Richmond, Ohio, twenty-five miles up the Ohio river from Cincinnati, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, a mob took Noah Anderson, colored, from the jail and hanged him for the murder of Franklin Friedman, nearly 30 years old, and president of the First National bank of that place. Mr. Friedman was among the wealthiest men of Clermont county. He owns a number of farms and lived at Clermontville, about two miles from New Richmond. He was driving into New Richmond shortly after noon today when he stopped at one of his houses, hitching his horse at the door. He went into an adjoining field, where he was suddenly attacked by Anderson, a tusked negro, who had no weapon but his hands. With these he quickly bore the aged banker to the earth and then clutching his throat with the power of a giant, he literally choked his helpless victim to death. The crowd that gathered in the afternoon, when the news of the murder was known, was not long until Anderson was captured and taken to the New Richmond jail, where a great crowd quickly gathered. Anderson made no attempt to conceal his crime. He glancingly told all the details and said he had given the old man what he had deserved. It is said that Anderson was not right in his mind and that one of his hallucinations was that Friedman had deprived him of a large sum of money. The truth is the two men had no dealings and Friedman had no money. Anderson came to New Richmond on a shanty boat only a few months ago, and claimed to be a paper hanger. The crowd about the jail soon became wildly excited as the negro's confession was known. Amid cries of "lynch him," "hang the coward," a rope was brought and the end seemed near. Impromptu citizens addressed the mob, imploring moderation and mercy for the man who was in his cell, on the ground of mercy. The marshal, when a momentary lull came, attempted to take Anderson to a more secure jail at Batavia, the county seat. No sooner did the man appear outside the jail than the mob rushed at the marshal and seizing the prisoner, bore him quickly to the nearest tree and in a masking, no attempt at concealment, every person present and on the ground the work knew all the others. It was simply an act of frenzied mob violence. The crowd about the jail was so dense that the man was covered to every citizen and his taking off was sudden and his friends and neighbors seemed to have lost their reason.

CUBAN SUCCESS.

REVOLUTION SPREADING WITH GREAT RAPIDITY.

Fall of Puerto Principe, Now Under Siege, Looked for Daily—Insurgents are Feeling Well.

Campbell Named for Governor, Peaslee Lieutenant Governor, Knott State Auditor, Sholer Treasurer, Mooney for Supreme Judge—Only One Free Silver Man on the Ticket—Campbell Recognized as the Best Campaigner of His Party in Ohio.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 21.—The ticket: Governor, James E. Campbell, Butler county. Lieutenant-Governor, John B. Peaslee. State auditor, James W. Knott. State treasurer, William Sholer. Supreme judge, William T. Mooney. Attorney-General, George A. Fairbanks. Member board public works, Harry B. Keefe. Clerk of supreme court, J. W. Crunkshank.

Without Opposition.

The Democratic state convention here today made all its nominations without opposition. The convention was in session from 10:15 to 2 p.m., and nominations were completed in a half hour after ex-Governor Campbell had been drafted for the standard-bearer. The ballots were all on the minority report, on credentials and resolutions, and the time was consumed between the gold and the silver men. The gold men, headed by Senator Brice, had claimed that there would be less than 300 delegates, and probably not more than 250 of the delegates who would vote for free silver. The silver men claimed that they would have no less than 300 and perhaps 350 delegates. It developed that there were 270 free silver delegates, and a fighting minority, who would not carry the fight further than on the platform.

Only One Free Silver Man.

The nominee for member of the board of public works is said to be the only free silver man on the ticket, although there were not drawn on the candidates. There was considerable enthusiasm over Campbell's nomination. He defeated ex-Governor Foraker in 1889 and was defeated for re-election as governor in 1891 by William McKinley, Jr., the present incumbent. The nomination of Campbell means an aggressive campaign in Ohio, where McKinley is now recognized as a candidate for president and Foraker for senator and Bushnell for governor. It is generally understood that Campbell was induced to make the race by promises of support for the presidential nomination in the event of his success next November, in which contingency he would again confront his old opponent, McKinley, should the latter be elected. In co-operating with Senator Brice, ex-Governor Campbell is also again confronting his old opponent, Foraker.

May Overshadow It.

Although Senator Brice is known to have prearranged with the ticket, it is the feeling of many that Brice and Campbell have reached such an understanding as to contest everything in Ohio with McKinley and Foraker, who are the strong favorites of the majority of the people. It is thought the contest between these old leaders will overshadow all currency questions and other issues. There is so little difference between the Republican and Democratic platforms on silver that this currency question is now believed to be disposed of in Ohio. The ticket will be kept prominent, as the parties differ widely on that issue, and Governor Campbell is expected to arraign the Republican state administration of the past four years, and to make a record in the previous campaigns. Governor Campbell called on his friends to-night before leaving and, with Senator Brice and others, arranged for a beginning of the McKinley aggressive campaign, in which they expect to co-operate with the leading Democrats throughout the country.

Campbell's Record.

Previous to his election as governor in 1889, Campbell had been three times elected to Congress in a Republican district and is recognized as the best campaigner of his party in Ohio.

His running-mate for lieutenant-governor, John B. Peaslee, was for years superintendent of the Cincinnati section law and the McKinley aggressive campaign, in which they expect to co-operate with the leading Democrats throughout the country.

The Platform.

The following is the majority report of the committee on resolutions, adopted in the committee, 19 to 2:

"The Democratic party of Ohio, in convention assembled, point with satisfaction to the fact that the action of that party the last two years and the results accomplished, according to its promises, to-wit: The repeal of the Sherman law, the un-American federal election law and the McKinley aggressive campaign, have resulted in the returning prosperity to the country to such an extent that even Republicans are obliged to recognize the same.

"We congratulate President Cleveland on his efforts in favor of the repeal of these vicious laws and the upholding of the credit of the country.

"We congratulate our senator, Calvin S. Brice, for the earnest and effective support he has given the president in these matters.

"When we consider the fact that the Democratic party received from the Republicans in 1892 a bankrupt treas-day at the round-up, Billings, who was herding, came to camp for water. Billings was unarmed. Grimes pulled his gun and began shooting. Billings was hit, the ball going through the stomach and coming out at the back. Billings asked Grimes to stop, but he stood behind his horse and said: "I'll take care of a man." Grimes stopped, jumped on his horse and left. Billings still alive. Grimes has killed three men. Before leaving the camp he took all the guns in sight. He says he will not be taken. The shooting took place twenty miles north of here.

State Convention Will Be Held in Omaha Today—The Silver Issue.

OMAHA, Aug. 21.—The Democratic state convention will convene in Omaha tomorrow. Since all opponents of free silver in the party will hold a state convention September 2, it is considered there will be no fight tomorrow along this line. There has been a pretty fight on between the two factions ever since the last convention. After the election in which the silver wing, by the nomination of Judge Holcomb for governor, came out victorious, there was a lot of up and down, and for a time it seemed as if the result in a reunion of the party in the state. In fact, steps were taken for a conference of the two wings. But J. Sterling Morton visited Nebraska and as a result of his consultations with the silver wing, the silver wing, all pending peace negotiations were at once declared off and the fight became warmer all along. The silver wing, in the opinion of the free silver Democrats, is in the majority to make a fight for recognition. The call provides for six delegates from each county, and the delegates at least 700 accredited delegates will attend. The convention will meet tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the evening a mass meeting will be held, at which addresses will be delivered by W. D. Bryan, of Cleveland, and J. W. Crunkshank, of Memphis. Mr. Crunkshank is detained in Memphis on private business and will not attend.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The portion of New Jersey bounded by the towns of Pomona, Port Republic, Brigantine Junction and Absecon, is either threatened by forest fires or already devastated. Hundreds of miles have been burned over, houses and live stock consumed, and it is feared there has been considerable loss of life. The burning country are numerous, but it is impossible to send them any help. Residents of Absecon were called out of church Sunday to fight the fire, but it was out after a hard battle the town was saved. There was hardly an inhabitant but some mark of the fight which had raged from noon until midnight. Flying brands and burning brands had scoured backs and faces and their clothes were in tatters. Others received serious injuries, and many a home presented the appearance of a hospital after the struggle was over.

Farmers Compelled to Fight the Rapidly Advancing Flames All Night—Great Damage Done.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Aug. 21.—The forest fire, which started near the place on Sunday and to which little attention was paid, now threaten serious loss. Last night a strong north-west wind blew and the flames were driven to the farms along the Manchester road and threatened for hours to reach the farm buildings. The farmers, aided by volunteers, fought the fire all night. Today the wind shifted and if it holds it will carry the flames into the extensive cranberry bogs, which are dry and will burn.
